“...speak out loud and bold...”:

The Artistry and Vision of Teaching English

Jackie Manuel, Deb McPherson, Jane Sherlock and other teachers are back to support you!

Registrations for this event are open at www.cpl.asn.au

This year's major English conference builds on previous English conferences by providing opportunities for deeper exploration of specific areas identified from teacher feedback.

Conference program highlights:

Why English teachers matter and why we need to “speak out loud and bold.”

Unpacking the first new syllabus HSC English examinations

- Implications for planning, programming and classroom practice
- Particular focus on Paper 1, Section I and Paper 2 Module C

Approaches to Advanced Module A

Parallel sessions with expert voices from the classroom on successful programming and practice.
(Conference participants can select to attend a specific session)

- Reading to Write and The Craft of Writing for Standard and Advanced
- Focus on Writing for EAL/D
- Writing Skills for English Studies

Captivating students with inspiring texts for reading, writing and creativity in years 7-11

Rich texts, practical strategies and abundant resources for establishing and building the culture of successful teaching and learning in Reading to Write and The Craft of Writing.

This conference will celebrate the artistry and vision of English teaching by exploring and showcasing the joys and of their profession. There will be practical, transferable and adaptable ideas and resources to inspire confidence, engagement and agency in teaching and students' learning. Fresh ideas will be presented to support teachers to continue to implement the English syllabuses in 2020.

The cost of the conference is TBA

All members of the NSW Teachers Federation are eligible to apply to attend CPL conferences.

The Conference will be held in the Auditorium of the NSW Teachers Federation, 37 Reservoir Street, Surry Hills
